

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Company Contact
Lisa M. Trajkovich
Protect-all, Inc.
(888) 432-8526
lisa@protect-all.com

PROTECT-ALL RECEIVES
US PATENT FOR BIOLAM® ANTIMICROBIAL PROTECTED
THERMAL LAMINATING FILM

BioLam® Laminating Film Effectively Controls The Growth of Bacteria on Laminated Documents

April 27, 2011 - Protect-all, Inc., a leading manufacturer of high quality laminating films, flexible packaging films, and industrial film products, recently received a US Patent on their innovative thermal lamination product, BioLam®. Designed to inhibit the growth and reproduction of bacteria, mold, mildew and fungi on laminated documents, BioLam ® is a film enhanced with an antimicrobial compound that can effectively reduce and control the growth of unwelcome microorganisms in environments such as schools, food service, and health care where reducing the spread of harmful bacteria is important.

Through a partnership with AgION Technologies, BioLam incorporates the natural protection of silver, which is a powerful antimicrobial ion that is safe and effective against a broad spectrum of bacteria. Printed documents laminated with BioLam reduce the spread of unwelcome microbes on the document through repetitive handling by interrupting the lifecycle of the organism and affecting the reproductive capabilities. This surface protection remains on the film structure and does not wash off with cleaning, to provide a durable solution for controlling the growth of bacteria on laminated documents.

-more-

“Our goal in developing BioLam was to provide an added line of defense against the spread of bacteria in environments such as hospitals, schools, doctor’s offices, and restaurants where maintaining a hygienic environment is most important” said Protect-all, Inc. CEO, Anthony Trajkovich.

Incorporated in 1990, Protect-all, Inc. encompasses 105,000 square feet of manufacturing and warehouse space in southern Wisconsin. The company offers total solutions to the converting industry with a full line of standard and specialty laminating films, flexible packaging products, industrial solutions, converting services as well as a relentless commitment to new product development and superior technical support.

About Protect-all, Inc.

Protect-all, Inc. is a manufacturer of standard and premium laminating films, flexible packaging films, industrial and custom products. The company has led the converting industry in innovation and new product development for more than 20 years, encouraging a multitude of organizations to turn to Protect-all for some of their most difficult applications. For more information about Protect-all, Inc., visit www.protect-all.com or call 888-432-8526.

